

East Borough Sewer Authority Told To Make Public Report

Council Calls For Review Of Progress

East Stroudsburg Sewer Authority will be required to make a public report on what, if anything, it has accomplished.

That was the decision of Borough Council last night.

The move which brought the action was one of the last made by Thomas Sexton, who resigned last night from council. The move was approved unanimously.

The action followed a stinging letter from East Stroudsburg Merchants Association.

Said Sexton: "I move the Sewer Authority be instructed to file a full report for publication in a newspaper."

"It's not up to this council (to file such a report)," Sexton said. "We appointed the Authority in good faith to see about building a sewer. I think they certainly—"

Here a buzz of agreement interrupted Sexton. The unanimous approval followed.

A short time earlier, council had approved the appointment of Dr. Charles J. Naegle to the authority. Dr. Naegle is retired dean of instruction at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. He replaces Carl T. Secor who resigned some months ago from the five-man board.

Chairman of the Authority is Ben K. Williams.

Secretary Sterling Cramer read the letter from the Merchants Association, which was signed by Harford L. Cleveland, president.

"It is our understanding that the Authority was appointed by council several years ago. Since that time residents of the borough have had practically no information as to the progress, if any, that is being made toward instituting a program to have a sanitary sewer system installed in East Stroudsburg," the letter said.

"The need for such a system is no longer debatable. The condition is growing worse each day, as we are sure members of council are aware."

"We feel that since council appointed the Authority they certainly should see to it that the Authority acts."

"We would like to recommend that if the present Authority does not care to take any action on this serious problem, you dismiss them and appoint a new Authority that will take some definite action."

Annexation Proposed

East Stroudsburg Council is considering requests for annexation of an additional 100 acres.

This would raise the total section in the proposal for annexation to about 300 acres—all of it in Smithfield Township.

Residents in the section—bounded now by the East Stroudsburg-Smithfield Township line, Franklin Hill Road and Leap Road—were reported circulating petitions for annexation.

Council instructed Engineer Edward C. Hess to survey the area with new section included.

It was also decided to survey and appraise the lower end of Chestnut St. with a view toward joining the two sections of the street to make a through-way.

Council adopted the budget with no change from previous figures, and set a per capita tax of $3 and millage of 14 mills—same as last year.

Council also decided to try to buy or obtain the 90,000-gallon standpipe on the Delaware. Lackawanna and Western Railroad property at the end of Washington St.

The standpipe would be invaluable as a water source in event of a major fire, Councilman Jack Wyckoff pointed out. It would feed five fire streams for about an hour and a half.

Railroad officials have told council they will abandon the standpipe April 1, and put it up for auction.

An amendment to an ordinance was approved which would give council the power to regulate parking upon recommendation by the streets committee.

It was voted to blackout Elm St. for a distance of 750 feet, and install curb and gutter.

Sexton moved to have Justine of the Peace Marshall H. Neyhart be instructed to "complete his accounts with the borough." The motion was unanimously carried.

Fluorination of borough water was urged in a letter from the State Health Department. Council has had a fluorination proposition under consideration, but took no action.

Balances were reported as: Water fund $51,098.58; general fund $18,007.78; highway fund $433.09; and parking meter receipts $905.39.

Thomas F. Sexton Resigns From Eastburg Council; No Successor Appointed

Thomas F. Sexton resigned as East Stroudsburg Fifth Ward councilman last night.

No successor was appointed or suggested. The resignation came toward the end of the meeting of Borough Council.

Sexton explained he made the move because he had moved out of his former Fifth Ward home at 319 Brookside Ave., and is now living at 51 S. Green St., which is in the Second Ward.

Second Ward councilman is Charles W. Buenzli.

Said Sexton to the group: "The borough is in fine condition, I think. In very good financial condition (he heads the finance committee)."

"Conditions don't warrant that I stay and I think it best for all concerned that I resign."

Sexton said he "had no recommendation as to a successor," except that he felt council should select a Democrat to replace a Democrat.

Council agreed to hold an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p. m. March 17 to discuss a successor for Sexton. Council has the power to appoint a successor to fill the unexpired term of a member.

Battle Shapes Up In Senate Committee Over Resolution Condemning Red Enslavement

Washington, (AP)—The lines were drawn up yesterday for a possible out-and-out fight between Republicans and Democrats over the resolution condemning Russia for enslavement of free peoples.

Secretary of State Dulles, sponsor of the original proposal on behalf of President Eisenhower, has said it would be better to have no action at all on the subject than to turn out a split decision which the Soviets could interpret to the world as a division in American views. Such a fight might still be averted, but Democratic statements sounded like the chance was a slim one.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee laid out the battle line—and produced a party-line split of its own—by writing into the measure an amendment which says Congress is expressing no opinion as to the "validity or invalidity" of long-controverted wartime agreements with Russia by President Roosevelt and Truman. Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) offered the new language.

The vote on that revision, and on approval of the resolution as amended, was 8-6. The six were all Democrats.

In the original version the Reds would simply have been denounced for perversion of agreements which resulted in enslavement of peoples behind the Iron Curtain.

Democratic leaders in both the Senate and the House had approved the original form, and opposed any revision that would amount to criticism of the agreements themselves.

Ferry Missing With 30 Aboard

London, (AP)—The sea ferry ship Farringford was reported missing with 30 persons aboard last night in a fog that blanketed most of England. Air, sea and road travel stalled in many places.

The 489-ton motorship which plies between the mainland and the Isle of Wight carries no radio telephone.

The ship left Yarmouth, Isle of Wight at 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m., EST) on the normally 30-minute trip to Lymington and was unreported hours later.

An amendment to an ordinance was approved which would give council the power to regulate parking upon recommendation by the streets committee.

It was voted to blackout Elm St. for a distance of 750 feet, and install curb and gutter.

Sexton moved to have Justine of the Peace Marshall H. Neyhart be instructed to "complete his accounts with the borough." The motion was unanimously carried.

Fluorination of borough water was urged in a letter from the State Health Department. Council has had a fluorination proposition under consideration, but took no action.

Eisenhower Confers With Van Fleet

Washington, (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet returned to a hero's welcome at the White House yesterday and held to his belief that the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea is invincible.

The strapping 60-year-old general was closeted alone with President Eisenhower for five minutes, which presumably gave the chief executive little opportunity to sound out Van Fleet at that time on his ideas for ending the long-stalemated Korean War.

Then a parade of the nation's top military chieftains, including the veteran Gen. George C. Marshall, filed in and joined the discussion for another 20 minutes before the group went to lunch.

Later, Van Fleet told newsmen the things he talked about with Eisenhower and the military high command were strictly "confidential."

He is scheduled to begin a round of congressional quiz sessions at an open hearing before the House Armed Services Committee today. Chairman Short (R-Mo.) said Van Fleet had agreed to testify publicly with as full information as possible without violating security.

Bombarded with newsmen's questions, Van Fleet ducked a direct reply when asked whether it would require heavy reinforcements for the United Nations to lash out on the offensive in Korea.

The general, who pricked congressional ears several weeks ago by saying the Eighth Army "certainly" could undertake a successful offensive now, answered the questions in these words:

"I'm certainly never going to admit that the Eighth Army could be defeated. The American Army has never been defeated and it never will be defeated. Those are my sentiments."

Some members of Congress have contended that without strong reinforcements the Eighth Army would suffer hazardous losses in attempting to break the military stalemate and drive the Communists out of the deep-dug entrenchments.

But Van Fleet appeared as confident as ever that the Allied forces he commanded for 22 months in Korea would be crowned with success in any test.

The four-star general is known to be deeply disappointed that the Korean truce talks put the wraps on the Eighth Army at a time when he felt he had the Communists on the run and permitted the enemy to build up their badly mauled forces.

He said recently that the stalemate was "of our own choosing and was not imposed by the enemy."

The White House reception accorded Van Fleet yesterday stood out in sharp contrast to the chill attitude reflected by former President Truman when Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned from his post as supreme Allied commander in the Far East two years ago.

Truman had fired MacArthur for publicly demanding stronger measures against the Chinese Communists.

Sportsmen's Association To Conduct Public Meeting For Discussion Of Incelod Program

Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's Association has decided to sponsor a general public meeting to hear discussions of the Incelod program.

A tentative date—March 26—was set for the meeting which will replace the monthly PMSA meeting. Time and place will be announced later, officers said.

In making its decision to investigate the Incelod proposal thoroughly, the association also appointed President Jacob Kintz as head of a committee to secure speakers qualified to discuss the matter.

At the same time, members of the association voted to ask all other area sportsmen to attend the meeting if they were interested. Secretary Donald Gilpin will contact other organizations.

During a recent meeting, club members declared that many sportsmen are still not certain what the program means. The March meeting will be an attempt to remedy that situation.

Incelod, a proposal which, if ratified, would bring Pennsylvania New Jersey, New York and Delaware into a four-state agreement for construction of dams along the Delaware River—was the subject of an unfavorable report recently handed to Gov. John S. Fine by his Water Resources Commission.

Copies of the report were not made available to the legislature at Harrisburg. This prompted Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe—one of Incelod's long-standing supporters—to introduce a motion asking that the files be made available for legislative study.

Pennsylvania is the only State which has not agreed on the Incelod proposal. Fine's Water Resources Committee suggested an alternate plan for damming the Delaware which would exclude benefits to other states.

Lawmakers Ready To Give State Back To Indians

Nashville, Tenn., (AP)—Six state legislators introduced this resolution in the Tennessee House of Representatives yesterday:

"Where as the bonded indebtedness of the state of Tennessee has reached an all-time high and that taxes have now reached the saturation point,

Therefore, be it resolved that the speaker appoint a committee to arrange a meeting with Chief Standing Deer of the Cherokee Indian nation, with authority to repeal the Treaty of Tellico Plains and thereby restore to said Indian nation that portion of land south of the Ohio River known as the state of Tennessee."

Delayed Fire Alarm Costs Seven Lives

New York, (AP)—A fire being fought by hand extinguishers exploded out of control over half a city block in the Bronx yesterday, trapping 146 persons and killing seven—five men and two women.

One woman tarried to get her coat. The delay cost her life.

Ten persons were injured, including two firemen.

Seven charred bodies were sprawled beneath debris on the mezzanine of a furniture factory at 150th St. and River Ave.—near the Harlem River and only seven blocks below Yankee Stadium.

Although there was a fire alarm box on the corner, the furniture workers fought the blaze themselves for 20 minutes. Only the chance passing of John T. Oakley, acting deputy fire chief, resulted in an alarm.

"Had any of them turned in an alarm," Oakley said, "possibly none would have succumbed to the fire."

DuPont Sees No Depression Threat

Chicago, (AP)—Irene du Pont, one of the multi-millionaire Du Pont brothers, said yesterday he is confident there will be no recession in American industry.

"Not even after defense spending has tapered off late this year," he told a news conference.

"We have learned to make so many things so cheaply that there is no reason why this nation shouldn't continue at a high level of prosperity. Industry, manufacturing, new products, will take up any slack when the burden of making arms slackens off," he said.

Pilot Averts Possible Tragedy

Chicago, (AP)—A fast-thinking Eastern Air Lines pilot averted possible disaster yesterday when he deliberately spun his Super Constellation loaded with 83 passengers off a runway after its nose landing gear collapsed.

The plane, which had just landed at Midway Airport after a non-stop flight from Miami, nosed into the muddy field, shaking up the passengers and crew. One passenger, Joseph J. Zieha, 47, of Chicago, suffered a slight cut on his foot. The others escaped uninjured.

West Berlin Deluged

Berlin, (AP)—West Berlin was deluged last night with a new flow of Soviet zone refugees and the West German government begged the Allies for military transport planes to supplement commercial "Freedom Airlift" moving out the urgent cases.

Crowe Demands Interstate Group Hold Water Hearings

Harrisburg, (AP)—Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe (R-Monroe) said yesterday he will ask the Senate to call on the Interstate Commission on Co-operation to hold public hearings on how best to develop water resources of the Delaware River.

The proposal to be presented in the form of a resolution next week would be the second demand for public hearings on the issue.

Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) who already has called for a legislative probe, renewed his plea yesterday with a charge that recommendations of the Pennsylvania Water Resources Committee "stink to high heaven."

Crowe told the Senate yesterday he believes hearings could best be handled by the Interstate commission because members have contacts with other states involved. These include New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

"But all plans—including Incelod and the Water Resources Committee recommendations—and any others advanced for the good of the people of Pennsylvania—should be checked thoroughly," Crowe added.

The Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin has advanced a long-range program for construction of dams in the upper Delaware River area. New York, New Jersey and Delaware have given their approval.

Pennsylvania's Gov. John S. Fine so far has leaned toward recommendations of his Water Resources Committee that the Keystone State reject Incelod and develop its own resources. However, the governor has said he will call a meeting of the two groups to iron out a compromise.

Gagwriters Vote Snickers Award To Stevenson

Washington, (AP)—Adlai Stevenson ran up a landslide victory over a squad of Washington politicians yesterday to win the "Snickers Award" of the National Association of Gagwriters.

His quips during his unsuccessful Democratic campaign for the presidency last fall were adjudged superior to the output of former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, former White House military aide Harry Vaughan, George Allen, Mrs. Perle Mesta, minister to Luxembourg, Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R-NH), Mike DiSalle—and even Harry S. Truman.

A scroll is being prepared by the gagwriters, with headquarters in New York, for presentation to Stevenson during the eighth annual National Laugh Week, which starts April Fool's Day.

IT'S A FINE BOY, agree President and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower as they are introduced to Aubrey Rhodes, Jr., by the happy mother outside Reid Presbyterian Church in Augusta, Ga. Shortly after leaving the services, the Eisenhowers returned to Washington.

Soviet Premier Paralyzed; Can't Talk

Moscow, (AP)—Moscow radio said today that Joseph Stalin has suffered a paralytic stroke and is in a serious condition.

The broadcast said the 73-year-old Russian Premier's right arm and leg are paralyzed, that he is unable to talk and that his heart has been affected.

The announcement identified the cause of illness as a brain hemorrhage.

The hemorrhage occurred Sunday and is spreading, the official announcement said, adding that Stalin is unconscious.

This was the text of the broadcast, which attributed the report to the Soviet news agency Tass.

"Government statement about the illness of the chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers and secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, Yofif Vissarionovich Stalin Joseph Stalin:

"The Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Council of Ministers of the USSR announce the great misfortune which has befallen our party, and our peoples—the grave illness of Comrade J. V. Stalin. "During the night of March 1 Comrade Stalin, when he was in Moscow in his apartment, had a hemorrhage in the brain which affected vital parts of the brain. Comrade Stalin lost consciousness."

"A paralysis of the right arm and leg developed, a loss of speech occurred, serious disturbances developed in the activities of the heart and breathing."

The dramatic radio announcement brought into high relief the recent widespread speculation that a struggle long has been under way inside the Kremlin for a successor to Stalin.

Deputy Premiers Georgi M. Malenkov and V. M. Molotov generally are the pair mentioned as the leading rivals, with most events in the last several years indicating that Malenkov's star is in the ascendancy.

Stalin now is 73 and his health long has been the subject of widespread speculation.

As far as is known, he was last seen by someone from outside the Soviet circle two weeks ago, on Tuesday night, Feb. 17, when he received the new Indian ambassador to Moscow, K. P. S. Menon, and a leading Indian fellow-traveler, Salfuddin Kitchlu, chairman of the Red-front All-India Peace Committee and recent winner of a Stalin Prize.

Girl's Condition Still Serious After Shooting

Still in "serious condition" last night was June Elwine, 17, Locomotive under treatment at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, for gunshot wounds in the abdomen.

Physicians had said the 48 hours following the accident outside her home about 1 p. m. Monday would be the critical ones.

Miss Elwine was wounded by a .12 gauge shotgun in the hands of her brother, Pvt. William Elwine, home on furlough from Camp E. J. Kane, N.J., according to Mount Pocono State police.

He told Cpl. Carson Overgard he "didn't know the gun was loaded."

Treasurer Is Arraigned On Five Charges

Honesdale — Wayne County Treasurer Ruth E. Spangenberg stood in court here yesterday, formally accused of embezzling nearly $7,000 in county funds.

Arraignment followed a biting court slap at Mrs. Spangenberg's attorney, J. Julius Levy by Wayne County Judge E. Bodie.

Levy, in a newspaper interview Monday, referred to a rival counsel, Robert J. Deemer as "Steamer". Deemer, Levy apologized yesterday.

Presiding at the arraignment was Lehigh County President Judge James H. Henninger.

Five criminal informations were filed against Mrs. Spangenberg by Wayne county District Attorney Louis B. Nielsen. Two of these accused her of felonies; three of misdemeanors on charges of a $6,855.97 shortage in county funds.

Specifically, the following charges were being pressed against the woman treasurer:

Use of $6,855.97 tax money for a purpose for which it was not intended.

Use, by Mrs. Spangenberg, of $5,000 of this money for her own purposes.

False entries in county check-books between Jan. 13 and Jan. 19.

Improper use of county funds between Jan. 5, 1952 and Jan. 5, 1953.

Conversion, for her own use on Jan. 5, of funds from two checks in the amounts of $5,261.31 and $1,594.66.

All five charges are being pressed by Wayne County commissioners who investigated the alleged embezzlement following an auditors' report.

Miss Emma Menner, county commissioners' office clerk for 37 years, appeared yesterday as first witness in the hearing.

Miss Menner told the court that on Jan. 3, books kept by her office and those kept by the treasurer balanced.

Cross-examined by Levy, she said Mrs. Spangenberg could cash checks without vouchers from the commissioners but had to account for them to her (Miss Menner's) office.

A. W. Crossman, member of a Scranton accounting firm hired by the county commissioners to audit Mrs. Spangenberg's books, took the stand after Miss Menner's testimony was completed.

According to Crossman, the treasurer's books were short $7,443.36 on Jan. 3. Two days later, he said, the books were balanced.

Mrs. Spangenberg explained this, the auditor said, by saying that she had deposited two checks—one for $5,261.31, a second for $1,594.66—in the "wrong account" in Honesdale Dime Bank.

When Crossman asked her to show where this "mixup" was recorded on her books, however, she could not point it out, he said.

A third witness, Elmore Hang, chief clerk for the commissioners, then identified the two checks. No vouchers had been drawn by his office for them, he said.

Mrs. Kelsey Oliver, one of the three auditors responsible for the original inquiry into alleged irregularities, said that cash and checks "on hand" in the treasurer's office Jan. 5 amounted to $6,443.27.

Thus far, two audits of Mrs. Spangenberg's book have been made. One—done by the Crossman firm—was completed at request of commissioners. A second audit was undertaken by a firm on behalf of Mrs. Spangenberg.

Reports by the two firms are in marked disagreement. Where the former shows a shortage, the latter firm reported it found "no shortage" in the books.

Yesterday's opening hearing was marked by the sidebar fireworks touched off by Levy's reference to Deemer as "Steamer".

Levy, in his reply to a reprimand from Judge Bodie, said:

"If it hurts Mr. Deemer's feelings, of course, I apologize. I did not intend to reflect on Mr. Deemer. The use of his nickname was inadvertent. I regret the statement."

Levy pointed out that Deemer had used the "nickname" for many years in the area.

Both Judge Bodie and Justice of the Peace N. C. Farnham withdrew from the Spangenberg case last month. Lehigh County Judge Henninger was assigned to the case by the State Supreme Court after their withdrawal.

Yesterday's arraignment was the first formal step in the case against the lady treasurer.

The 41-year-old Mrs. Spangenberg is free on $2,000 bail.

Rites Conducted For Miss Gussett

Family Of Three Overcome By Coal Gas; All Treated At Hospital Dispensary

A family of three who were overcome by coal gas yesterday morning at their East Stroudsburg home, received treatment in the dispensary at the General Hospital before being discharged.

According to East Stroudsburg borough police, who investigated, Kenneth Wiley, 48, his wife Beatrice, 52, and his mother, Mrs. Charles Wiley, 79, were affected by the fumes.

Wiley told police he smelled coal gas at 6:30 p. m. at his home, 82 Brown St., and went to the basement and closed the furnace door. An hour later he said the fumes were stronger and on investigation found the stove pipe pulled loose from the chimney unit.

While attempting to fix the pipe Wiley said the fumes began to choke him and he made his way through the kitchen and aroused his sister-in-law, Mrs. Chatfield who lives with her husband, Rev. J. Chatfield, a traveling evangelist, in a trailer adjoining the Wiley home.

Mrs. Chatfield entered the home and assisted Wiley's mother out in the open. Meanwhile Wiley regained consciousness in the trailer and, with the aid of a man he called Mr. Getz, went into the home and carried his wife out. A neighbor, Mary Coffman, also came to their aid.

Dr. Nina Price was summoned and the hospital ambulance took the three people to the hospital. They were released early yesterday afternoon.

Damage to the car was estimated at $500. Operator of the truck was Francis J. Webb, 60 Sheridan Parkside, Tonawanda, N.Y.

As the mercury went down, a coating of ice began to appear on branches, cables and poles. It was a slow, steady rain, quite a bit like that in early January.

During the January storm, Monroe County communication was thrown out of whack for weeks in some areas, power poles were crumpled by heavy wires and high winds.

West End areas still have not been restored to normal communication by telephone.

Last night's rainfall was a part of general rains throughout most of Eastern Pennsylvania. Weather forecasters had predicted the moisture earlier this week.

Bad road conditions sent highway department workers out on cinder trucks from Blakeslee at 6:10 p. m. in an effort to clear up slippery conditions on Effort Mountain roads.

At Mount Pocono, six trucks and 18 men were dispatched at 6:30 p. m. Two and one-half hours later the "roads were all bare," an official said.

Temperatures in the Mount Pocono-Effort region hovered near the 27-degree mark early in the night; went up slightly after 8 p. m.

At the new Pennsylvania Highway Department shed on Lackawanna Trail, near Stroudsburg, the thermometer read 34 degrees at 10:30 p. m.

Throughout most upper regions of the county, weather conditions were reported as "raining, freezing and foggy." Traffic had slowed down on hills and curves, mostly as precaution, observers felt.

There was little evidence that last night's rain might turn out to be anything but a seasonal pre-spring soaking.

Just the same, homeowners, motorists and farmers were keeping their fingers crossed in the hope that history would not repeat itself on such short notice.

Auto Rams Into Truck; Two Injured

Two East Stroudsburg young men were treated for minor injuries at General Hospital dispensary last night after the car in which they were riding rammed the rear of a tractor-trailer.

Treated were James L. Bellis, 20, of 101 E. Brown St., driver of the car, and Charles Clurso, 16, 107 E. Brown St. Bellis suffered a cut lip; Clurso had a forehead cut which required 11 stitches to close.

Stroudsburg State police said the Bellis car was traveling north on Route 611 north of Stroudsburg when a car in front of them pulled out, passed the truck.

The air compression windshield wiper on the Bellis car failed, police said, causing the car to ram into the rear of the truck.

Damage to the car was estimated at $500. Operator of the truck was Francis J. Webb, 60 Sheridan Parkside, Tonawanda, N.Y.

Two Treated After Crash

Injuries suffered in a trailer accident near Mount Pocono last night at about 8:30 brought two North Carolina men to Monroe County General Hospital for dispensary treatment.

John Vaughn, Stonyville, N. C., 31, was treated for a cut over the right eye; Henry Ladd, Yadkinville, N. C., suffered minor bruises hospital records showed.

Mount Pocono State police will complete their investigation of the accident today, they said.

Police Make 33 Arrests

Thirty-three arrests were made in February by East Stroudsburg police department, Chief Arthur Swink announced last night.

Excessive speeding in the borough account for 14 of the arrests, Swink said. Others were five for passing stop signs, one each for illegal parking and parking on a sidewalk, two each for reckless driving, passing a red light and driving while intoxicated.

Three persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges and four more were apprehended for disorderly conduct and drunkenness. Of this group one received a suspended sentence and two were committed to Monroe County prison for 30 days.

Four electric sign permits were issued, Swink said. The returns to the borough were $242, excluding $10 over to the state.

UP GOES THE POWER OF EVERY BUICK-Special Super and Roadmaster!

World's newest V8

Television treat—BUICK CIRCUS HOUR—every fourth Tuesday

It's more than pride that makes a man want a lot of horsepower beneath the hood of the car he owns.

For the real point in reaching record horsepowers and compression ratios goes beyond miles per hour. It steps up performance and economy in normal driving.

That's what Buick engineers did when they upped the power and compression of each 1953 Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER—to the highest figures in Buick's fifty-year history.

In the SUPER and ROADMASTER, they put a new kind of V8 Engine—first passenger-car V8 with 8.5 to 1 compression, and a long list of other major engineering advances.

For the SPECIAL, they redesigned the famed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine—gave it shorter flame travel, faster firing, higher horsepower and compression.

And to these spirited engines they coupled the new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive® that adds flash-fast, quiet getaway to utter smoothness.

Just to give you an example of what all this means: The 1953 Buick SPECIAL with Dynaflo can beat the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER on getaway—can reach 30 mph (when the law allows) with a combined speed and jerk-free smoothness no other car can equal.

Of course, there's far more to these new Buicks for 1953—some seven dozen new features alone.

But why not come in and see for yourself that these are the greatest Buicks—and the greatest values—in fifty great years.

Your Municipal Election

This is an election year when citizens determine exactly what kind of local government they will have for four years.

There are only two county offices to be filled—treasurer and two associate judgeships.

Real importance of the election is in those who are closer to home—the administrators of township, borough and school affairs.

Here citizens have a real opportunity to appraise. Most of those running for office can be scrutinized with greater accuracy, with first hand knowledge because they are the neighbors of the citizens they would serve.

There are those who have served and should be appraised on their pattern of service. There are new faces seeking office who should be checked thoroughly as to qualifications.

Findings in these cases should be fairly applied to what the citizen wants—with a sharp eye always on the cost. It is no less true now than it has ever been that you get what you pay for, and you must be willing to pay.

On the other hand, citizens are entitled to get a dollar's worth of service for every dollar in taxes they have paid.

If they don't, certainly they must shoulder some of the responsibility, especially at the level of the municipal elections this year.

Now is the time to take stock. Make a fair, honest check of all the facts, then apply them to your selections of those who you would like best to run your municipal government from 1954 through 1957.

Red Cross Needs You

This is the month of March, when traditionally the American Red Cross asks all of us to give what we can in order that the work of that wonderful organization shall continue without interruption of any sort.

And the month of March, 1953, is thus again the time when you are being asked to think of those who have not been as fortunate as you, and share your better fortune with the people of the Red Cross who will translate your money into services for all who need it.

This year, especially, interest is centered on the continuing blood-donor program and the new gamma-globulin blood derivative from which it is hoped to aid materially in the battle against polio.

The story of what blood has done in saving the lives of men wounded in the Korean fighting should be familiar to all of us by now, but less well known is the hopeful program of using the newly discovered blood derivative to allay paralysis in polio sufferers.

And in reviewing the annual reports of any Red Cross chapter in the country, it is impressive though less dramatic to find the countless cases of home service whereby citizens, be they veterans or not, are given assistance when disaster strikes them through fire, flood, tornado, or whatever.

All these things cost money. And that, of course, is why each year the Red Cross asks you to be as generous as you can be in order to carry on the never-ending program of aid.

White House Luncheon — "Democrats as well as Republicans are attending weekly lunches with the President in the White House—News item."

Ike. — I am glad to have you all for lunch, regardless of party lines, knowing, as I do, how the E. e. p. u. blicans suffered for lack of nourishment when the Democrats were here. I think the bi-partisan lunch is a good thing, don't you?

A Democrat. — I will be in a better position to answer that after I have asked for a second helping.

A Republican. — Harry Truman never asked us over to any White House lunches.

A Democrat. — The less a Republican got to eat the better we liked it.

Ike. — Are any of you gentlemen on a diet?

A Democrat. — Yes, but only for the next four years, I hope.

Ike. — We're starting with a noodle soup and I hope you like it.

A Republican. — Noodle soup was a rarity here under the last Administration. It was so hard to find a noodle.

Ike. — Come, come, no sarcasm! A Democrat. — May I have a large spoon?

Ike. — You can't fool me, Senator. You had a spoon and put it in your pocket as a souvenir.

The Democrat. — You're wrong. That was a knife and fork. My wife asked me to get a complete set.

Ike. — I hope you have observed that no Republican has done anything like that.

Another Democrat. — Don't be silly. I just saw a Republican take a solid silver soup tureen and a cake knife.

Ike. — I resent that. When the Democrats moved out of Washington there wasn't a silver tureen left.

A Democrat. — This coffee is pretty strong.

A Republican. — Obviously. This Administration is obviously a much bigger BEAN.

Ike. — Gentlemen, one purpose of these lunches is to discuss the world situation. I trust that nobody here will gesticulate with a fork.

A Democrat. — Please pass the butter, and I think your Formosa policy extra dangerous.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Chiang, Rhee Both Opposed To Use Of Chinese In Korea

Washington — Most significant thing about General Omar Bradley's high-powered discussion of the Korean war the other day was the portion omitted from his carefully prepared address.

This very revealing deletion was due to direct State Department intercession — at the vigorous insistence of Chiang Kai-Shek and President Syngman Rhee.

Of course, the State Department did not forcibly censor the speech of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. At that lofty level, such delicate matters aren't handled that way. But the effect of the State Department's action amounted to censorship, just the same.

The importance of this background episode is of real moment for two reasons:

(1) General Bradley's speech at Palm Beach, Fla., was not an ordinary one. Everything about it was carefully worked out in advance: the time, the place, and the contents. The address was a major policy pronouncement on military views and concepts and was aimed chiefly at the key chancelleries of the world, the United Nations and Congress.

That's why the original manuscript was closely scanned not only by the State Department but by the White House, too.

(2) The section that was blue-pencilled dealt with one of the most controversial and far-reaching issues in foreign affairs, and Bradley's discussion of it was stricken from his prepared address at the instigation of the two Far Eastern potentates most immediately affected.

UN-Eager Beavers — The intriguing inside story of the censorship by these two moguls is as follows:

Main purpose of General Bradley's speech was to outline Pentagon thinking on possible courses of action for ending the Korean war. From the text he read at Palm Beach, the head of the Joint Chiefs enumerated seven alternatives. But there was another one in his original manuscript.

This proposal dealt with the possible employment of the Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa to reinforce UN divisions on the Korean front or to attack the Reds on the Chinese mainland.

In Bradley's script, he stressed that the Joint Chiefs were not recommending either measure; he merely listed them as feasible possibilities.

But despite this restraint and explanation, the State Department pointedly "suggested" to Bradley that these alternatives be deleted from his address; that no mention of any kind be made of them.

Reason: ". . . both Chiang and Rhee object to the use of Chinese Nationalists."

That is what the State Department wrote Bradley on this highly important portion of his carefully-prepared policy speech. He complied with this "suggestion" after some private inquiries.

From them the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs learned: That despite Chiang's loud public talk about wanting to fight the Communists, he bluntly told U. S. authorities he will not send his American-trained and supported troops to Korea or to fight on the Chinese mainland. Further, Chiang wants all sounding off on the latter subject limited strictly to himself—because he greatly fears Red air attacks on highly vulnerable targets on Formosa. The danger of such raids is very real; American authorities have been fully cognizant of that since President Eisenhower announced his new policy regarding Formosa. From the frantic word Chiang has sent the State Department, he is apparently scared stiff at this threat.

President Rhee intensely distrusts and dislikes Chinese troops of all kinds, regardless of whether they are Nationalists or Communists. He doesn't want Chiang's men in South Korea on any terms and is very vehement about that.

Flashes — Ray M. Gidney, head of the Federal Reserve Bank in Cleveland, will be Comptroller of the Currency. That's the inside word from the Treasury, where Gidney is credited with having the potent backing of both Secretary Humphrey and Deputy W. Randolph Burgess. . . . That hooped six-day visit of Argentine Dictator Peron to Chile was a bust. Despite the grandiose ceremonies, the Argentinian bully-boy got nothing beyond some vague promises of a possible future trade pact. Outside of official circles, the Chilean press and public were openly hostile to Peron. . . . GOP insiders are hinting that the best bet for chairman of the Federal Power Commission is Willard W. Gatchell, Assistant General Counsel of the company, who has the backing of Governor Tom Dewey. If Gatchell does get this prize, it will be quite an upset for Senator Frank Carlson (R., Kans.), who has been vigorously supporting Jeff Robertson, chairman of the Kansas Corporation Commission. However, Robertson is being strongly opposed by important Kansans.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Production And Marketing Administration Forms Gird Of Strong Political Powers

THE PMA

The Production and Marketing Administration (PMA) of the Department of Agriculture has 106,000 employees (including per diem committeemen) who are in every state and every county and form a grid of political power which seeks to dwarf

Agriculture to its will. Many members of Congress find that these government employees constitute a pressure group whose policies may be and often are different from those of the department which pays them either a salary or a per diem fee.

The PMA is a child of the AAA and while there may be some slight difference of complexion, the philosophic background is the same, namely, a socialization of agriculture by the process of dependence upon government aids and subsidies. While the AAA set up controls over the agricultural process, its object was to make the farmer a controlled citizen. To understand something of this institution, it is necessary to go back into its genealogy.

The AAA was the agency of government which Harold Ware, in 1934 hit upon as the best unit to use as a training base for infiltration into government. Harold Ware was the son of Mother Bloor, a leader of the American Communist Party. Of colonial stock, he had early become interested in the Russian Revolution and was recruited by Lenin to teach the Russians all about mechanized agriculture. He devoted about 10 years to this Russian activity, setting up large, communal farms all owned by the Russian government, and using tractors and other agricultural machinery to which the Russians were not accustomed.

About $75,000 was raised by the American Friends of Soviet Russia and the newly formed American Federated Russian Farmland Relief Committee for this purpose.

In 1934, shortly after the United States had recognized Soviet Russia, which had agreed not to interfere in our lives, Harold Ware, in the United States, organized his cell consisting of Harvard Law School graduates, including Alger Hiss, to infiltrate high positions of government. To train them in methods and techniques, he used the AAA.

Such persons as Alger Hiss, Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, Henry H. Collins, Jr., John Abt were in this group. Whitaker Chambers says, in "Witness," that there must have been 50 or 70 persons in this cell, as it developed, and that they were all dues-paying members of the Communist Party. He says that Henry H. Collins, Jr., of a distinguished Philadelphia manufacturing family was treasurer of the Harold Ware cell and was actually a recruiting agent for the Soviet apparatus.

After being trained in the AAA, many of the able ones moved in to other departments of government where they made notable public careers and served their master, Stalin, ably and adequately. However, they left behind enough of their own people who adhered to their Socialistic philosophy in AAA to have given that agency a purpose and a bad name. Eventually, the AAA became the PMA, which is not only an agency of government but a political machine. The size of the PMA is to be gauged by the fact that the usual employees of the Department of Agriculture amount to only 70,000.

These PMA employees mostly work at the grass roots level, where they can affect the careers of members of Congress. It is therefore possible for them, if they are so minded, to bring influences to bear which may strengthen or harm a Secretary of Agriculture who has little control over them. The PMA is a department within a department, an empire of officeholders built up into an enormity for political advantage.

The PMA ought to be abolished. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will find that mere reorganization or pruning for economy reasons will not serve. It would be possible for the FBI to check the names for loyalty, but such a task, involving 106,000 individuals, would consume the full manpower of that agency for a year or more, considering what else they have to do. The cost would be enormous. It seems to me that it would cost less and be more effective to abolish the PMA, distributing its useful functions to other agencies in the Department of Agriculture.

At any rate, something needs to be done about this bureaucratic behemoth, and obviously unless it is done by the Administration, it will be accomplished by the investigative process of a Congressional committee.

There's nothing like a good loser, even if it's done with tongue in cheek.

Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic Presidential candidate, who has the rare distinction of having been licked by the largest popular vote in American history, recently expressed his delight at having lost.

The new President, he said, won, but had all the miseries of the Presidency, the toll, the trouble and the heartaches. He, on the other hand, lost and is now having a wonderful vacation!

Ain't it delightful?

The only thing I can't understand is why Stevenson went through such an enervating ordeal last fall trying to get himself elected.

He traveled many thousands of miles begging the voters to let him have the miseries of the highest office in the land.

Millions and millions were spent by his party to put him into an office which would involve "toll, troubles and heartaches."

It seems to me that if a man really wants a delightful vacation there is a much easier way to get it than to run for the Presidency and get licked.

If I want to avoid pneumonia, I don't deliberately expose myself to it; and then, if I don't get it, I don't shout with joy that I am deliriously happy because I didn't get sick.

Stevenson's speech reminded me a bit too much of the man who hit himself on the head with a hammer just because it felt so good when he stopped.

By the way, please don't think for a moment that I don't consider Adlai a wonderful speaker. He is brilliant, erudite, charming and has such a command of our language that I honestly believe he talked himself right out of the medical item, is medicinally healthful. This disproves that old saying that "the bigger the pill, the harder it is to take."

New York—Bob Hilliard was up to see me the other afternoon, making with the mild gripe, but the best I could do was to pat him on the shoulder and tell him he was dead wrong.

Bob is a big, reasonably young man with the aura of Broadway about him, who looks as if he should be drinking coffee in Lindy's. Set him down anywhere along the big drag, from 42nd street to Columbus Circle, put a cigar in his mouth and hang a camel's hair coat over his arm, and he'd seem at home.

What sets him apart from the rest of the inmates, however, is a talent for writing the words to songs. He is one of Tin Pan Alley's top lyricists and the citizens are paying homage to him right now as the guy who fashioned the rhymes to the tunes in Hazel Flagg, the new musical starring my doll, Helen Gallagher.

Except the citizens aren't really paying homage and therein lay Bob's gripe. Now, he seems to have no more than the average itch to be famous, but he does feel that lyric-writers have been getting the short end of the stick. In behalf of some of his colleagues that he admires—mention Larry Hart and, rightfully, he almost kneels and prays—he'd like to see them better known.

"For example," he said to me, "take Stardust. Everybody links Hoagy Carmichael with that, 'Hoagy Carmichael's Stardust,' they say. Well, it's a fine melody—but you know that a guy named Mitchell Parrish wrote the words? You did? Well—I'll bet most people don't."

Bob sat back and named more names. He pointed out that while Harold Arlen is given credit for the production of Stormy Weather, the blues song that did so much for Ethel Waters, the words were the work of Ted Koehler. And Arlen's Over the Rainbow, sung for the magic lanterns by a soprano named Garland (whatever became of her?) had lyrics by Yip Harburg.

The aforementioned Hart, probably the greatest of them all (and tell me what street compares with Mott street in July)—was much less known than his tune-writer, Richard Rodgers—and, of course, the classic example may be Ira Gershwin, who did nearly all the words for his brother George's songs. Ira's words to the Purge and Bess score had more than somewhat to do with that opera's success.

"About the only lyricist that people seem to know," Bob said, "is Oscar Hammerstein, now Rodgers' partner, and I believe they know him more as a writer of show books than as a word-writer for songs."

Hilliard, then, has a point—but I must tell him that this is one case where the public is right. If the public remembers Stardust as Hoagy Carmichael's song, the public is right. Without its haunting melody—just put the words down on paper and look at them, without thinking of the tune—you'd have nothing.

I am a man who deals in words and reveres them. The great writers—the handful of them—make the hair stand up at the nape of my neck—and I have a wall lined with books, virtually any one of which can take me out of this world and into another. I consider myself a practitioner of one of the world's most masterly arts.

On the other hand, I think you can take every wonderful word ever written, and that goes right back to the Songs of Solomon—and matched alongside of a few notes correctly juxtaposed by the right composer and sung or played by the right man, they are as nothing.

I am a writer, and whenever someone tells me that writing belongs on the same shelf as music in the hall of fame, I tell him he has rocks in his head. Writing is an art. Music is the art.

My guess is that this goes right down the scale, to the cheap, amiable little music of show business. The words are interesting, amusing, occasionally moving—but the tunes make the songs go. Nobody loved Larry Hart's lyrics more than I—but Rodgers' greatest music, Slaughter on Tenth Avenue, has no words at all.

I write words, too Bob—but great as I am, and that's pretty great, I'll give Rachmaninoff billing over me.

You can bet, dear Margaret, that we "ordinary people" know what's going on in the world.

Cotton Bag Fashion Show For Jr. Women

Dramatizing the story of the "sack with a future" a fashion show of cotton bag garments was staged before members and guests of the Stroudsburg Junior Woman's Club at the Stroud Community House last night. Thirty-six costumes made from cotton feed, flour and fertilizer bags were worn by local models with Miss Mary Hall, home economics teacher at Stroudsburg High School, as commentator.

Mother and daughter dresses, casual dresses, pinafores, tomboy shorts, blouses, sundresses, school clothes and dating and dancing dresses and summer formals, all made from McCall and Simplicity patterns were modeled.

Mrs. Ruth Boekenroeger and her daughter, Ginny, teamed up for the mother and daughter ensembles, while Karen Stabenow and Linda Jo Pine modeled other children's clothes. Junior Woman's Club models included Jean Crouse, Elizabeth Bixler, Jeanne Gaunt, Janice Miller, Rose Morgan and Natalie Lyons.

The wardrobe was provided by the National Cotton Council. Following the meeting, refreshments were served with St. Patrick's Day cakes.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

You remember how, walking in a fog, there's a little circle of clear air that seems to follow you, so that wherever you are is the center of the visible world. Well, seems as if the mental fog that a lot of us carry around with us creates much the same illusion.

The things which you do, the people you meet, the meetings you go to—are the ones which seem real and interesting to you. So that when you turn aside from your well-trodden rut, and discover new territory, you cry "Eureka! How Wonderful!" as if it hadn't been there all along.

The hospital, for instance, when you've a friend or relative there, immediately takes on a center-of-the-universe aspect. The kind deeds of the Gray Ladies, the extra services of the nurses, the whole world of suffering becomes very real—while you're looking.

The trouble is that the minute you turn your eyes away and get back on the usual track, that reality fades and you forget that it's there at all.

It probably is a good idea, once in a while, that we are forced from our customary road to see old things with new eyes—meet new people—come up against different problems—And discover whole new worlds within a stone's throw of our homes, even if we lose them again so soon.

TIME MOVES on for George Sebring who celebrates his 90th year today. This aged timepiece gets good attention from the former Cherry Lane resident who now lives on Route 209, above Marshalls Creek. (Daily Record Photo)

George Sebring, 90 Today, Always Played Active Role

By James Gaffney
It's March 4 all day today and George Sebring, who lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buckman, on Rt. 209 above Marshalls Creek says "I'll be 90 sometime today."

Time is only a passing fancy for the aged man who, until a year ago, drove his own car daily and puttered around his garden. But when his eyesight began to fail Mr. Sebring admitted he had to store his car keys, although he still tackles all forms of reading material.

Born March 4, 1863 in Honesdale the son of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Sebring, his family moved to Cherry Lane, near Tannessville, when he was two. His father formerly had been a boatsman and hauled coal on the canal to Adirondacks, N. Y. But in Monroe County the father and eight children reverted to farming and built the Meadowbrook Manor at Cherry Lane.

Mr. Sebring attended school near Cherry Lane, walking half a mile to attend classes with 29 other "scholars." After early education he too became a farmer and lived in Orchard Cottage and operated Meadowbrook Manor on a lease-basis as a "boarding house."

While residing in Pocono Township Mr. Sebring became active as a musician and played bass horn and cornet with the old Tannessville Band. Later he joined the musical aggregation in Stroudsburg and traveled to Ohio where the musicians served former President Harding. "I still remember the time Admiral Dewey stopped off near Mount Pocono at a hotel. We played for him there," he recalled.

As a Democratic politician Mr. Sebring was a member of the Pocono Township Board of Supervisors and later served three years of an unexpired term as school director. He admits he changed his politics to Republican to vote for Herbert Hoover and has been GOP since.

In Cherry Lane Mr. Sebring also attended Sunday School and the Methodist Church regularly and served as superintendent many of the 40 years he was active. His last term as head of the Sunday School was just two years ago. Today, when weather allows, he attends services in the Presbyterian Church near his home.

Mr. Sebring also operated a lumber mill business where Penn Hills Lodge now is located. He was in that field about 12 years and claims to have sold much of the lumber in area buildings to contractors at that time. He had eight employees on his payroll at the peak of his career.

As a motorist Mr. Sebring compiled an admirable record—no accidents to speak of, especially in the 12 years he and Mrs. Sebring traveled annually to Florida. His wife, the former Susan Cramer of Cherry Lane, died 18 years ago.

Mr. Sebring has a son, Arthur, of East Stroudsburg and two daughters, Gladys, wife of Dr. Paul Shiffer and Estelle, wife of Harry Buchman with whom Mr. Sebring resides at Gladimere, a resort home. A granddaughter, Harriet Sebring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sebring, teaches the opportunity class at the Presbyterian Church, East Stroudsburg.

Of eight children in the Joshua Sebring family, only three are living: a brother Martin, of Allentown and sister, Mrs. Howard Hallett, of Cherry Lane, and Mr. Sebring, who is the oldest.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Comes the mail . . . bringing a delightful airmail letter from Lillian Savidge in Mexico, who encloses two dozen beautiful prints for my Madonna collection, plus the enviable news that the climate South of the Border is heavenly . . . no rain, no chill, and, of course, no snow; also a card from Mae Smith of our carset department, who is basking in the sunshine of Orlando these dull March days, and would like a copy of the store paper which she read about in the Wyckoff Shopper column. (We're happy to forward one, Mae—and doubly happy that your name is in it.)

Then there's a gracious note from Freida Manze, saying thanks for the gift in her recent sunshine basket. Best part of THAT communication is that Freida was well enough to return almost at the same time, after far too long away . . . Comes a visitor . . . in the person of Miss Miriam Lark, who is directing preparations for the Girls' Home Economics Clothing Exhibit which opens today at Wyckoff's with judging, and closes Saturday evening when the prize winners will model their entries in a parade through the main floor and Tea Room . . . Comes a co-worker: Arthur Widmer, head of our advertising department, with snapshots taken during the recent Women's Days fashion show and breakfast. Best snaps are those of Vanda Powlett, leading Mike and Tom, the Wyckoff twins; and the two Ednas, Harmon and Beckman . . .

Incidentally, did you SEE Harmon yesterday? She was good-naturedly facing up to a lot of ribbing on the subject of those dark glasses. For a while it seemed that Edna might have become "celebrity conscious," what with her recent election as president of both the Employees' Association and "Women's Days."

But that's not the case—her complaint isn't a swelled head, but a puffed-up eye . . . Comes a phone call: first from Mary Collins at Scranton, giving the data about our Wyckoff telephone service since 1916 when we were part of the old Stroudsburg-Bushkill system; then from Irene Masters of our accounts payable department, expressing surprise that she dialed 245 and didn't get 225.

But speaking of "coming" events, the most UP and coming are the new spring styles arriving every day in the store . . . the bamboo furniture from the Far East, so perfect for summer parties on the lawn or patio; the adorable, coronation-minded hats, with their elegant use of velvet, straw, and jewels; the crisp cotton dresses for wear in the kitchen or, later, at the picnic or beach; the taffetas and silk shantungs so elegant for afternoon and evening wear; the stunning wool suits, some with stoles; the new shoes, that are as "sole-ful" as a lovesick adolescent—with a few straps to hold them snugly in place; the cozy, pastel-colored scarfs; the soft, sleek patent and calf skin handbags; the new gloves with added interest in design or cuff at the wrist; the cobwebby sheerness of hose; the exquisite daintiness of the very fashion-riest mother-of-pearl jewelry . . . and the luscious, early spring fragrance that always lingers around the cosmetic counters. Yes—the things that come are delightful, entrancing, and highly enjoyable. And most welcome! Particularly today. Today comes the pay check.

Present State Constitution Written During Reconstruction Period Following Civil War

By Pete Olwyler

American politics were at their smelliest when Pennsylvania's Constitution was adopted 80 years ago.

It was in the reconstruction period after the Civil War. The writers of the Constitution intended to make sure the legislature of the 1870s didn't abuse its power.

Unfortunately the same wire mesh of restrictions has bound every legislature since.

The U. S. Constitution is the Large Number At Services

The second in the series of Sunday afternoon vespers conducted Sunday afternoon in Monroe County General Hospital under the auspices of the County Ministerial Association was well attended.

This informal service conducted from 1:30 to 2 has been highly praised by the hospital authorities for the spiritual inspiration it affords convalescing patients as well as those who are critically ill.

Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, conducted last Sunday's service. In addition to his Gospel message a series of old familiar hymns were played on a tape-recorder as accompaniment for the group singing.

Next Sunday's speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn, minister of the Tannersville Lutheran Parish. Superintendent Harry Smith announces the services in advance to all patients, by placing an announcement of the time, place and speaker on a mimeographed notice accompanying the supper tray on Saturday.

pattern of all American constitutions. Its writers confined themselves to establishing "a framework of government," says former Attorney-General William A. Schnader.

In only one section did the writers specifically restrict Federal power; and in only one did they restrict the powers of the states. All the other provisions, Schnader says, established the U. S. Government and fixed its relationship to the states.

No amendment to the Federal document, says Schnader, has been designed to "prevent a recurrence of abuses within the government itself by putting Congress in a legislative strait-jacket."

That is what the Pennsylvania Constitution did, he holds. A large part of the Pennsylvania document is devoted to detailed restrictions on the power of the legislature.

The Assembly, in Article III, Section 20, is forbidden to delegate to any "special commission, private corporation or association," any of its power to "make, supervise, or interfere with any municipal improvement, money, property or effects . . . or to levy taxes or perform any municipal function whatever."

Reason for this prohibition was that experience with some semi-public commissions in Philadelphia had left a bad taste in the public mouth.

Today the same prohibition seems "rather incongruous," the State Bar Association thinks.

"The entire device of authorities would seem to be prohibited," (East Stroudsburg's Sewer Authority or Hamilton Township's School Building Authority are among several operating in Monroe County.)

In addition, says the bar association, commissions perform municipal functions by regulating utilities.

The State Supreme Court sustained the use of commissions and authorities several times. In each case the court found that the particular device wasn't forbidden by the Constitution.

The bar association says it doesn't intend "to quarrel with . . . these decisions." But the practice of today is surely not in accord with the theory of Article III, Section 20, it adds:

"Governmental regulation within proper limits has had the general approval of the people.

"With that point in mind, the Constitution should be revised and brought up to date."

Specifically, here's what the bar association suggests:

"The legislature should be empowered to appoint any commission, board or committee, the main purpose of which is to aid it in performing its functions. Members of the legislature should be allowed to serve."

It's based on a similar article already included in New Jersey's Constitution.

Brush Fires To Highlight Discussion

Exercise of care to prevent brush fires will feature discussion of the Monroe County Firemen's Assn. next week.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 12, at the Stroudsburg Municipal Building. Marlin A. Bitterman, Tannersville, president, will be in charge.

Hosts for the meeting will be Phoenix Fire Co., No. 2, and Chemical Co., No. 1. Discussions of matters of interest to the volunteer fire companies will feature the program. Refreshments will be served following the business session.

President Bitterman, speaking of the numerous brush fires which have broken out recently, urged that everyone take special care to prevent them.

Carelessness, firemen say, is the main cause of the fires which can be the means of heavy loss to property.

President Bitterman spoke of the recent fires which called out the Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Stroud Township and Kunkletown companies. Probably other companies were also called, but have not reported.

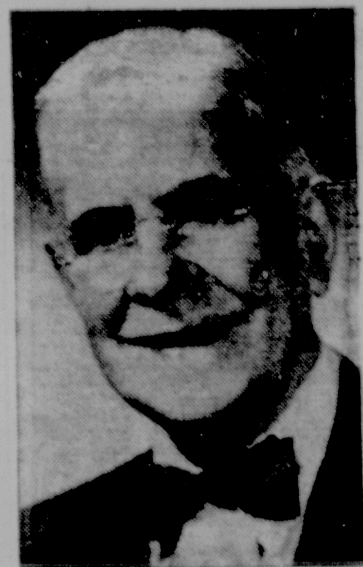

This calls firemen from their employment, a situation which with care could be avoided, it was pointed out. Cooperation on the part of the people can help materially, Bitterman said.

Stroudsburg Rolls Over East Stroudsburg In Finale, 64-46

Third Quarter Rally Fails Cavaliers

Stroudsburg High wound up its 1952-1953 basketball season with a decisive 64-46 victory over East Stroudsburg last night, before a near capacity crowd in the W. Main St. gymnasium. Only for a few brief moments in the third quarter was the outcome of the game in doubt.

The Mountaineers enjoyed a full night as the Stroudsburg junior varsity cage machine edged the East Stroudsburg yearlings in a thrilling preliminary contest, 47-46. Dick Little led the winning attack with 14 points, while "Snooky" Lits kept the Cavaliers in the game with 17 tallies.

Stroudsburg held the upper hand from start to finish in the main event, but East Stroudsburg showed flashes of expected form in the third period and pulled to within five points of the Mountaineers, 39-34.

Captain Joe Chase and Don Herman led the attack, helped with some fine floor work and shooting by Bob "Red" Kupiszewski, but Stroudsburg fought back to win without effort the remainder of the distance.

Play raged rough and tumble from start to finish, with fouls, wild passes, missed shots and mental errors far more plentiful than points.

Stroudsburg fans had plenty to cheer about throughout the contest, as the Mountaineers led 17-9 at the end of the first period and 33-19 at the halfway mark.

Fast Stroudsburg supporters began to wonder if an upset wasn't in the wind during the third round, as the Cavaliers inched closer and closer to the front running Mountaineers. Stroudsburg came back in the final moments of the third round to even the period score at 15-15. This turn of events put the Mountaineers in front, 48-34, going into the home stretch.

Virtually every member of the Stroudsburg squad broke into the scoring column during the final eight minutes and the Mountaineers made certain of victory with a 16-12 advantage.

Stroudsburg went to the foul line on 31 occasions, making good on 18 shots. East Stroudsburg hit the cords on 10 of 19 attempts from the free throw line.

Byron "Chick" Miller and Bill Hickey, both seniors playing their final game, tied for top scoring honors for Stroudsburg with a total of 16 points.

Chase, Herman and Kupiszewski led the losing attack with 11, nine and eight markers respectively.

Adelmann, Byron Miller and Karl Weingartner were rewarded with trophies after the game, as most valuable player, player with best foul shooting average and player with best field goal average respectively.

The victory enabled Stroudsburg to complete the season with four wins and 18 setbacks, while East Stroudsburg has won one and lost 20 games. The Mountaineers own two favorable nods over the Cavaliers this season.

Bloomsburg Retains Top Spot

Johnstown, (AP)—Bloomsburg retains the lead in the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Basketball Conference but the championship hinges on three games remaining this week.

Bloomsburg finished its regular league season last week with a 10-2 record and 270 points. In second place is California with a 6-2 slate and 265 points.

Holds Answer

Kutztown with a mediocre 4-6 record holds the answer to the title under the complicated league scoring chart. Kutztown must win over Shippensburg and West Chester to assure Bloomsburg the title.

Should Kutztown lose either of the games, the season's final game between Shippensburg and Edinboro will be the deciding factor.

ESSTC Ends Cage Season At Scranton

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will bring its basketball season to a close today, when the Warriors tangle with the University of Scranton, at the Catholic Youth Center in Scranton.

The junior varsity encounter between the two teams is scheduled for 7 p. m., while the main event will get underway at approximately 8:30 p. m.

ESSTC must win today's contest if it hopes to finish the campaign with a .500 record. The Warriors thus far have won seven and lost eight contests.

The wins have been over Ithaca, Wilkes, West Chester, Paterson, Kutztown, Lock Haven and Trenton. The setbacks have been at the hands of Panzer, West Chester, Kutztown, Ithaca, Wilkes, Trenton and Millersville twice.

Lineups

Coach Chris Denis will answer the starting whistles today with a lineup of Ray Kaseman and Joe Maioriello at the forward posts; high scoring John Sloan, center, and Ed "Jake" Palmer and probably Tony Black at the guard posts.

Scranton will wind up its season on Saturday, when the Royals tangle with King's College.

Joe Pitt, starting forward for the Royals, has scored 472 points in 23 games, and will be Scranton's big threat today. Captain Pat Ryan, the other starting forward, has tallied 308 points in 23 games. Bob Bessior will be at center, while Curtis and Licata open at the guard spots.

Pitt tossed in 31 points in a losing cause against Albright on Saturday.

Scranton will take a record of nine wins and 14 defeats into today's battle.

Today's game is the only contest scheduled between the two schools this season.

DeVivo's Club Wins Industrial Loop Laurels

DeVivo's Shoemen clinched the Industrial League basketball title at the Monroe County YMCA last night with a close 57-56 verdict over the East Stroudsburg Diner. The win gave DeVivo's club both the first and second half crowns.

The Diner led 15-13 at the end of the first period, but DeVivo's crew went ahead to stay at halftime, 29-24. The winning aggregation held a 16-9 edge over the Diner in the second round.

Rally Fails

Both teams picked up 10 markers in the third round, but DeVivo's edge for the Diner in the last period failed to change the tide of battle.

"Big John" Possinger led the winning attack with 17 points, while Jim "Bunk" Smith paced the losing offensive with 18 markers.

Life of Nerino

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Harold Nerino, the stormy center of attention in the Blue Mountain Baseball League during the past two campaigns, was voted back into the good graces of the circuit on Monday, during a regular monthly meeting at Johnsonville. The vote was declared "unanimous" by league officials. This scribe found out yesterday that Hal was returned to active status by a narrow vote of three to two, with one team abstaining from voting. Pocono A. C. was one of the teams that voted for Nerino's return to active status.

This column is agreed with the decision by the league to allow Nerino to return to a position in the circuit. The former Roseto pilot has been under suspension for one and one-half seasons, since striding an umpire midway in the 1950 campaign. This column is of the opinion that Nerino deserves another chance, as no truly serious damage was caused, such as bodily injury, when the blow was struck. Undoubtedly any other outburst of this type will certainly bring about a life-long suspension of the Slate Belt resident.

Nerino, who played with the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1946, the first year of the class "D" North Atlantic League, certainly should have learned his lesson by this time. Hal also campaigned with Bangor and Berwick before dropping from the NAL to the Blue Mountain League. The former Roseto pilot was named a free agent and now has the circuit's permission to sign with any team in the league that wants his services. Hal is the type player that can hold down any position, but his best spot is in the outfield, usually in center.

It was good to see Pocono A. C. back in the middle of a Blue Mountain League meeting, with Bill Frear handling the Monroe County club's interests. Pocono A. C. is officially entered in the BML for the coming campaign and the team is expected to hold a business meeting this week to plan for the future. The entry of Pocono A. C. into the circuit brought the fold to six teams, although the league is still hopeful that it may operate with seven or eight teams throughout the 1953 season. Stockertown was thought to be a sure entry this season, but the club notified one and all on Monday that its status was very doubtful.

Stockertown has lost seven of last year's regulars by the draft in recent months, four last week. Manager Bob Siebler said that it was very doubtful that his club would operate this coming season. Roseto, another annual entry in the circuit, also finds itself in a very doubtful condition. Both clubs were given until next Monday to make up their minds and to inform the league as to whether or not they will be ready for action when the season opens on Sunday, May 10. Olympia Pacionioli, former first baseman for Portland, will hold down a similar position with Martin Creek this season.

Pacionioli is a former Rider College baseball star. Martins Creek, according to the general consensus of opinion, will be the team to beat in the 1953 Blue Mountain League flag race. In addition to Pocono A. C. and Martins Creek, the other clubs ready to launch the season are East Bangor, Tannersville, Portland and Johnsonville. This column is also agreed with the fine idea of no Blue Mountain League games on Memorial Day or the Fourth of July. The ball players also like to celebrate holidays, and this latest move should prove very popular in all departments.

Harry Janson and his by-laws and schedule committee got the ball rolling in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League at the same time the Blue Mountain League was making plans for the future. Janson and his committee took steps toward doing away with any future wrangles such as the case of Ray Steele last Summer, by putting some real teeth into the by-laws. Several changes were made in the existing by-laws that should make the Pocono Mountains League even better and stronger than it was last season.

The schedule was also drawn up for 1953 at the Tannersville Inn meeting on Monday. Each team will play 18 games, nine at home and the same number on the road. Walter Polinski, one of the all-time favorites as far as the Stroudsburg Poconos are concerned, reportedly will play with Tannersville in the Pocono Mountains League during the coming campaign.

Parkland's victory over Coplay for the second half title in the Lehigh-Northampton League surprised many people, who thought the Coplay club was virtually a sure thing to land second half laurels. Although Coplay seemed to have the championship in the bag at one stage of the regular race, this is the same Coplay quintet that wasn't supposed to do a thing in the 1952-1953 campaign, due to heavy graduation losses last June.

Braves Block Browns Move To Milwaukee

Sarasota, Fla. (AP) — A new move to shift the St. Louis Browns' baseball franchise to Milwaukee before the start of the 1953 season ran into a road block yesterday, and influential parties on both sides agreed there's no chance of it immediately.

The Milwaukee franchise in the American Association is owned by the Boston Braves, who don't want to sell. The Braves were offered $500,000, compensation to move their Milwaukee club to Toledo, an open territory, but Lou Perini, president of the Braves, said, "No."

Bill Veeck, head of the Browns, is eager to move and Milwaukee is beckoning him with a five-million dollar stadium, but the Braves are not willing to get out unless they can pick up an equal franchise elsewhere.

Reason

"We wouldn't stand in the way of Milwaukee getting into the major leagues," said Joseph Cairnes, executive vice president of the Braves. "But before we give up the franchise we want a triple-A franchise with the same potential. We're interested in a triple-A franchise in a few days or a few weeks."

At Milwaukee, Clifford Randall, president of the Greater Milwaukee Committee handling the new 32,000-seat stadium, said he had made the half-million dollar offer to shift the Milwaukee club to Toledo. The Braves weren't interested.

The total in the Senate bill compares with $925,172,920 voted by the House and $2,327,521,117 asked by the Truman administration. An effort now will be made to compromise the differing figures in the Senate and House bills.

Parenthood Group Plans Campaign

The Monroe County Planned Parenthood Committee is conducting its annual educational and fund-raising campaign.

"Our local agency is one of 96 Planned Parenthood branches through the country," said Mrs. Harold Flagler, campaign chairman, "operating a total of 175 clinics with child spacing help for married women."

"In addition to medically indicated contraception to benefit the health of mother and child, the Planned Parenthood program includes marriage counseling, education for marriage and parenthood, and referral service for the treatment of infertility for childless couples wanting children."

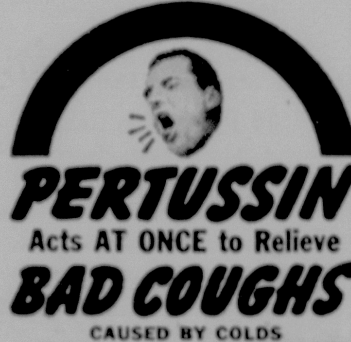

"Also a small portion of local funds are forwarded to the national organization for research in human reproduction to find improved methods of child spacing."

Those wishing to contribute may mail their donations to the Planned Parenthood Clinic at 519 Sarah St., Stroudsburg. The largest donation to the local clinic has been made by Dr. Charlotte Jordan who gives her services (as specially trained physician) and other resources, to the work of the clinic.

The local clinic is open each Wednesday from 12:30 to 2 p.m. to all married women of the county, regardless of their ability to pay.
